Introduction

Although door to door delivery still exists, centralized mail delivery is now part of all new residential and commercial developments in Canada and the United States.

Selecting the right type of service from the options available will ensure an efficient postal service

Centralized Mail Delivery

Definition

Centralized mail delivery is a unique form of mail delivery system where a letter carrier provides delivery and collection services to a number of residences from a centrally located installation – whether in a single-family subdivision or multi-family structure. Business customers also receive delivery services from a convenient central location. Centralized mail delivery equipment can be in the form of any "clustered" type mailbox – including free-standing, pedestal-mounted cluster box unit or other cluster mailboxes mounted in a wall, kiosk, or shelter.

Advantages

Advantages & Benefits

- Efficiency and Cost savings
- Customer Convenience
- Security & Community

Efficiency & Cost Savings

- Centralized mail delivery is the most cost effective, sustainable method of delivery
- Multiple deliveries per stop results in faster service for customers due to less time per delivery stop, resulting in lower costs
- Larger compartments hold several days worth of deliveries without rolling or folding the mail, and convenient built in package lockers eliminates the need to be home or at the office during services hours - reducing extra trips to the Post Office® to retrieve items

Efficiency & Cost Savings

- Costs less to install per resident than individual mailboxes and mail delivery can often begin even before residences are occupied
- Centralized mail locations reduce risks to letter carriers due to unleashed dogs and poorly maintained sidewalks
- Fewer vehicle stops results in lower vehicle maintenance costs, fuel savings and reduced carbon emissions resulting in a “greener” method of delivery

Customer Convenience

- You can pick up your mail from your own compartment any time of the day or night
- Parcel compartments (available with some systems) allow delivery of larger items rather than the recipients having to pick them up in person at the local postal outlet
- A central mail delivery system can be designed or customized to fit into any development or building or commercial center

Security & Community

- Locked and secure mail collection saves residents trips to the Post Office® or collection boxes and protects contents from the weather better than unsecured receptacles
- Individually locked compartments offer security and privacy
- Builds stronger neighbor relationships and trust as residents meet and talk while retrieving their mail - increasing community collaboration and awareness
- Highly visible centralized mail centers are safer than isolated delivery locations for residents and help provide greater protection from mail theft and mailbox vandalism
